

ASTOX Symposium 2017

Location: University of Vienna, Faculty of Chemistry, Währingerstr. 38, Carl-Auer-von-Welsbach-lecture hall

Preliminary program:

Thursday, April 20th, Start: 2 pm

End scientific sessions first day: 6 pm

6 pm public lecture in German: Dr. Dämmgen: Akute tödliche Vergiftungen durch Arzneimittelrückstände in Nutztierkadavern

Thereafter, ASTOX-members are invited for dinner at the Stieglambulanz (Please indicate on the registration form whether you plan to attend)

Friday, April 21st

Start 9 am

End scientific sessions second day 1 pm

Starting at 1.30 Annual ASTOX membership assembly (invitation will follow)

Submit a contribution:

Deadline for submission of oral or poster contributions (extended): 6.4.2017

Preparation of abstracts: see attachment

Submission of abstracts via email to markod15@univie.ac.at

Registration fee: 65 €/ students 35 €

Registration form: see attachment, please send by email to markod15@univie.ac.at

The symposium will comprise sessions on:

- Endocrine Disruptors
- Ecotoxicology
- Actuals Topics in Toxicology (to be selected from the submitted contributions)

Confirmed talks/speakers:

Brigitte Landesmann (ISPRA, Italy): „AOP-concept“

Tamara Grummt (UBA, Germany): Implementation of in vitro test systems for regulatory toxicology using the example of the anthropogenic drinking water contaminants

Sabine Kulling (Max-Rubner-Institute, Germany): Biotransformation of soy isoflavones in humans, rats and mice.

Alexandra Fischer (AGES): Endocrine Disruptors

Doris Marko (University of Vienna, Austria): Estrogenic „cocktails“ in our diet: combinatory effects of myco- and phytoestrogens

Franz Berthiller (Boku, Austria): Masked forms of zearalenone